

Multi-Dimensional Gated Recurrent Units for the Segmentation of Volumetric Biomedical Data.

We applied a neural network with the main components being multi-dimensional gated recurrent units using all the available low resolution sequences plus high pass filtered versions thereof. Details are located in a paper which is currently in the process of being published.